Hellenic Swimming Federation President's Message

The organization of the XIII CMAS Finswimming Junior World Championships to be held in Chania on 25/6-1/7/2014 , is a great sport event with long-range contribution to Sports and the Society general .

It is not the first time that the city of Chania hosts such a major sporting event in Aquatics and especially in Finswimming , a sport that since 2010 joined Hellenic Swimming Federation .

Consequently, we assure all participants to be confident that except the traditional hospitality they will find the guarantees which will contribute to a smooth and great organization of the Championships.

Upon completion of the Championships, I am convinced that , all participants will have good memories of the place that hosts it and the people who will work tirelessly for its success.

Dimitris Diathesopoulos
Hellenic Swimming Federation President

The City of Chania

Chania is considered to be the most poetic and cultured city of Crete. Visitors are astonished of the romantic taste of beauty of the scenery that comes from the ruins of ancient Kidonia, over which Chania is located. Castles, walls, antiquities, monasteries and churches compose the leftovers of the intruders during centuries.

The city has two entrances: the airport of Akrotiri and the port of Souda which is the largest of the Mediterranean. Public market holds a master place in the centre of the city with a an impressive star-shapped building in the center of it, that completed in 1913 in the pattern of the market of Marseille.

Chania is located at the western part of Crete and is divided into 5 provinces, covers 140.000 km² with population 140.000 residents.

North, south and west sides of Chania are surrounded by the sea; peninsulas, Libyan sea and breathtaking beaches are mirroring the sunlight of Europe.

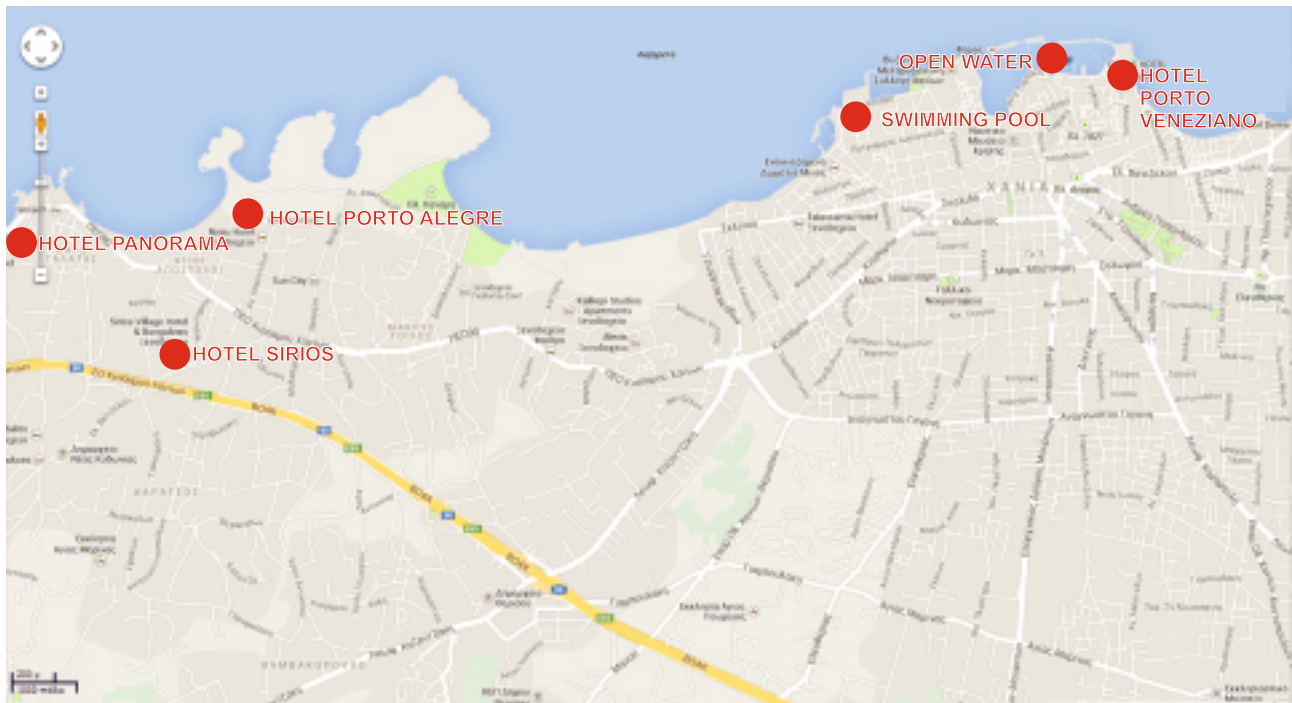

Tourist Information

The area of Chania, due to its natural beauty and variety of sights, attracts many tourist from all over the world. The city also accepts visitors who are interested in economical activities in the area, as well as scientists and educators, who are interested in historical files, historical monuments and museums or are interested to visit the Technical University of Crete, which is an important research centre. The following diagrams show the tourist movement in the area of Chania during the last decade. The elements are from official sources.

Tradition

The Cretan folk tradition which is marked mainly in weaves, jewelry, carpets, blankets, elaborated utensils, pottery, expresses the feel of beauty and artistic mood of the people of Chania. Simple village women, but also organized agricultural associations, make small "miracles" from silk and wool. You will also notice plenty of handicrafts from glass, wood, metal, along with pottery, woodwork and metalwork workshops. Give yourself some time to watch the production of the black leather boots "stivania" at Skridlof street in Chania where the smell of the processed leather is dominant and do not miss the opportunity to read poems that are gravened on Cretan knives.
